

show preview

NEW BEGINNINGS IN TABLETOP AND HOUSEWARES

NY Now ushers in new tabletop and housewares products that boldly mix materials, offer innovative finishes and in some instances turn traditional design motifs or products on their ear. Also of note are a few brands debuting in New York, including Marigold Artisans, the lower-priced, whimsical division of Michael Aram Inc., and Costa Nova, whose Portuguese parent, Gestel, distributes it and the Casafina brand in the United States under a new management agreement. —Allison Zisko

- 1 Sequoia vases from Viterro utilize a cased black and frosted amber art glass technique.
- 2 Peetal New York's Lotus Leaf tray has a stainless-steel base and wavy textured brass handles.
- 3 Spring Copenhagen relaunches The Salt Penguin salt grinder by J. I. Christoffersen.
- 4 Ice cream containers are part of the new Marigold Artisans brand from Michael Aram Inc.
- 5 New designs have been added to Twig NY's Well Versed collection of vases.
- 6 The Madeira collection from Costa Nova has a cracked surface similar to the effect of dappled lighting.
- 7 The lacquer coating on this wooden cutlery from Yame, Japan, comes in several colors.
- 8 W&P Design's Baking Blanket, a silicone baking liner, is inspired by classic Mexican textile prints.
- 9 Q Squared Classica in Black brings a classic, chic look to melamine dinnerware.
- 10 The Zaku 3-in-1 Tumbler is a vacuum-insulated, stainless-steel, double-walled tumbler whose lid allows for drinking, sipping and sealing.
- 11 Silpat's nonstick baking mats now include seasonal themes.